View of the great eruption of Mount Vesuvius, as it appeared from Portici on Sunday night August the 8th 1779 taken from a drawing made by Father Antonio Piaggi.

Cone of Mount Vesuvius before the last eruption.

View of a current of lava, that ran from Mount Vesuvius in 1777, and which took its course near the little mountains formed by the eruption of 1760.

LETTER FROM THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARIAN

John P. Wilkin

Juanita J. and Robert E. Simpson Dean of Libraries and University Librarian

This year, my seventh at Illinois, also marks the beginning of my second term as Dean of Libraries and University Librarian. I am proud of all we have accomplished, and I look forward to what lies ahead. As a leading library, we have committed ourselves to both the past and the future—to sustaining the cultural record while supporting new ways of learning, new forms of scholarship, and new ways to communicate our scholars' research to the world.

Let me start by thanking all of you, our donors, who believe in our Library and its role at the university. Your support is reflected in the beautiful plates that adorn this calendar, courtesy of Library Friends Jim and Lionelle Elsesser and their gift of Sir William Hamilton's Campi Phlegraei. This spectacular 18th-century study of Italy's Mount Vesuvius made Vesuvius a "must-see" spot for adventurers and laid the groundwork for modern geology and vulcanology. In so doing, Hamilton both expanded the future of scientific study and highlighted the region's history.

Our library buildings are also important markers of the past and the future. It was a notable year for library anniversaries: the Music and Performing Arts Library's 75th, the Undergraduate Library's 50th, and the Grainger Engineering Library Information Center's 25th. We also continue to advance our Library's future. We have made strides in developing our plans to replace the oldest part of the Main Library stacks with a new structure that will help us ensure the future of our collections while also enabling the Main Library to serve as a research hub for the humanities and social sciences. At the same time, we will transform the Undergraduate Library into a home for special collections, giving our rare and archival collections the home they deserve. Two firms were selected to develop conceptual plans; committees (both internal and campus-wide) were formed to guide the process; and feedback from both the Library and the broader campus was solicited via town halls and small group discussions. A vision is emerging from all of these efforts, and we look forward to sharing that with all of you.

This year we also finalized the Library's five-year strategic plan—our roadmap to tomorrow. To underscore our commitment to the university's mission, we will focus on four priorities: serving as a proactive and trusted partner in scholarship, discovery, and innovation; providing transformative learning experiences for our students; enhancing our societal and global impact; and making strategic investments in our sustainability.

As we continue to grow, our FY20 budget—so generously supplemented by Library Friends—will accelerate our forward momentum. The campus has provided support to grow collections, to enhance our buildings, and for strategic hiring. Included in that support is ongoing funding for the Illinois Distributed Museum, which highlights innovations from the University of Illinois.

This was a remarkable year, where building upon the past and shaping our future were at the center of our work, ranging from digitizing a remarkable manuscript penned by Sir Isaac Newton to modernizing the Main Library's first-floor service point. Truly, the work of the Library bears witness to the best of the past and to our extraordinary future.

Mission

The University Library is central to the intellectual life of the university. By providing and stewarding collections and content that comprise a record of human knowledge and by offering a wide array of services, it enhances the university's activities in creating knowledge, preparing students for lives of impact, and addressing critical societal needs. The Library advances the university's goals by striving to ensure unfettered access to information and by providing a network of expertise that ensures value, quality, and authenticity of information resources. The Library integrates and manages knowledge to enable learning and the creation of new knowledge.

Vision

The Library is central to the vibrant intellectual life found at Illinois and committed to student success. Infused throughout the university, the Library fully engages with the university's mission by offering physical and virtual access to the finest and broadest array of scholarly resources available and by providing the expertise of the best librarians and staff. Serving scholars around the world, the Library's global preeminence reflects the university's land grant values and its own rich heritage.

Financial Statement

During the 2018–2019 fiscal year, the Library received more than $3.4 million in total gifts. The Library is grateful for these generous contributions, which help sustain its excellence and status as one of the world's preeminent research collections.

The Library's advancement effort is an integrated fundraising program that seeks support on several different levels in the form of gifts and pledges to current use and endowment funds, grants, and planned giving.

The market value of the Library's total endowment as of June 30, 2019, was $60.3 million. Invested both for income and long-term growth, endowment funds play an especially important role in helping the Library meet the challenges of the future.

Fiscal Year 2019

Endowment Funds

Endowment funds provide a valuable opportunity to invest in the future of higher education. Each fund serves as a permanent financial resource that generates annual income for a designated purpose. In this way, donors create a living legacy that spans generations.

Library endowment funds are established with gifts of $25,000 or more, payable over a five-year period. The income is used according to the wishes of the donor and typically benefits a specific Library collection, program, or service.

Funds Endowed from July 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019

Campi Phlegraei

The images in this calendar are from Sir William Hamilton's Campi Phlegraei. Thanks to Library Friends Jim and Lionelle Elsesser, both alums of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, the University Library was able to acquire one of the most beautiful and original books published in 18th century Britain, written by a leading scientific pioneer of the age. Hamilton's Campi Phlegraei is the spectacular product of his decades-long study of Mount Vesuvius at a time of the volcano's renewed activity in the 1760s and 1770s. Hamilton's vivid letters from Naples describing his adventurous ascents of the flaming mountain launched Vesuvius into popular fame: it thereafter became a must-see on the European Grand Tour.

The richly-produced volume now in the Library's collection is a wonder worthy of the volcano itself, full of gorgeous plates depicting the Bay of Naples, the Italian countryside surrounding Vesuvius, and, of course, the volcano's boiling summit in all its glory. But perhaps the coup de grâce of the book is the exquisite suite of drawings of volcanic rocks (shown here), which establish Hamilton, and the Campi Phlegraei volume, at the first frontier of modern geology and volcanology.

The Library is grateful to the Elsessers for their generous gift.
