Colleagues:

We have several updates to pass along today.

COVID-19

Please make sure you've read the Uploaded & verified Vaccination Record Card to replace testing MassMail from Chancellor Jones.

Beginning May 17, only the following COVID-19 testing locations will be open: Beckman, CRCE, Illini Union, and State Farm Center. Refer to these location updates on the campus's COVID website.

Building Access

In response to inquiries about OLLI scholars and non-affiliated users accessing our library buildings, we recommend relaying the following information:

The University Library is following campus guidance on access to university buildings (<https://covid19.illinois.edu/on-campus/building-access/>). As that guidance changes, we will work to revise our policies, and we look forward to resuming more services as soon as reasonably possible.

HathiTrust ETAS Ending

In order to give campus users as much advance notice as possible, we announced in Sunday's Eweek and GradLINKS that the HathiTrust Emergency Temporary Access Service is ending June 13. We've also added this announcement to the Library's homepage and it will be pushed out via the Library's social media channels.

Changes to Fulfillment Workflows and E-Preferred Strategy

As we approach the end of the spring semester we will be moving away from our e-preferred strategy and broadening access to print in preparation for discontinuing use of the Hathi ETAS. Beginning with the Summer I term, which begins on Monday, May 17th, patrons will have new request options in the online catalog to specifically request physical books or digitization, and screenshots of exactly how that will look will be available soon. If patrons place a request for a physical item those items can now route directly to the intended pickup location without the work order to Preservation Services or purchase of electronic version.

Alma and Primo Catalog Unavailable May 29-30

Over the Memorial Day weekend, Alma and the Primo catalog will be offline from 10 pm CDT on Saturday, May 29 through 10 pm CDT on Sunday, May 30. This will be communicated to our users via Eweek/GradLINKS/iNews and social media channels. It will also be announced on the Library's homepage. Please refer to Michael Norman's May 4 email via LIB-NEWS for more information.
